

There's More to Health Than Healthcare

Closing the loop on referrals for social services requires more than just technology.

Without the infrastructure in place to enable the sustainable delivery of social services and foster community collaboration, clients fall through the cracks. At Healthify, we build the infrastructure to support end-to-end care coordination across our social service networks.

By joining Healthify's accountable networks, you can streamline referral management with ease and ensure that clients receive the services they need to thrive.

About Us

Our founding team of community health workers and technologists come from a background of working with at-risk patients in local hospitals. They saw how the social determinants of health dramatically impacted health outcomes in their communities and were moved to create a solution that integrates health and social services.

Today, our expert team of former social workers, public health professionals, and healthcare consultants work with health plans, providers, public agencies, and community organizations to drive better health outcomes for 20 million clients nationwide and counting. We specialize in creating the infrastructure that allows for streamlined referral coordination, improved data tracking and reporting, and increased access and visibility to healthcare organizations.

Benefits

Stronger collaboration

Network partners join a community of social service organizations, who are all accountable for meeting the full spectrum of a clients' needs. As a result, handoffs between healthcare and social services are consistent and ensures that clients receive high-quality care.

Streamlined care coordination

Healthify's intuitive referral platform serves as the foundation for our networks. As a partner, you'll have free access to the platform, enabling your organization to identify social needs, locate resources, coordinate bidirectional referrals, and measure the success of interventions.

Increased data transparency

Each network partner has access to data to monitor referral outcomes. Healthcare partners in the network can directly tie the impact of interventions to clinical and cost outcomes, which can provide critical data to quantify the value of your services.

Contracted partnerships

Health plans and providers are integrating social services into their value-based strategies at a rate like never before. But the idea of contracting directly with healthcare organizations can feel daunting. Leverage the contractual relationships we've already built with premier health plans and providers in the community.

Join Us

Join us in our mission to improve health outcomes for individuals and families across the country.

If you're interested in becoming a network partner, complete the Network Participation Form. For more information, contact networks@healthify.us.